DETAILED ACTION

1. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 3, 4, 7, 9-11, and 16-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the Naoki patent (JP 2001-000860) in view of the Dennison patent (US 5,476,665).*

The Naoki patent teaches a method of graft polymerizing a porous particle by plasma irradiation under a pressure of 0.05 to 0.1 Torr (see paragraph [0009], [0025], [0027], and [0029]). The pressure of 0.05 to 0.1 Torr falls within the claimed pressure because 0.01 to 10 mbar is equivalent to 0.0075 to 7.5 Torr. However, Naoki does not teach impregnating an inclusion in the pore to form a functional particle. The Dennison teaches incorporation of an inclusion by solvent phase inversion in order to form functional particles. See claims. Therefore, it would have been obvious for one having ordinary skill in the art to combine the teaching of Naoki and Dennison to make functional particles comprising an inclusion. The graft polymerization method taught by Naoki facilitates the readiness of the particle in receiving material to be impregnated in the core because it helps opening the pores and functionalizing the pore surface, and the solvent phase inversion taught by Dennison allows incorporation of inclusion in the porous particle taught by Naoki.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 3, 4, 7, 9-11, and 16-22 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground of rejection set forth above.
